

I strongly support the above captioned proposal. CW remains an efficient and effective communication mode. Band restriction is the only tool in the FCC's arsenal that will ensure that wide band modes do not overpower the continuing relevance and vitality of CW communications. Thank you for your consideration.